

Instructions for Ten Commandments Dice Roll Game

Preparation

- To play the Ten Commandments Dice Game, you will need a pair of blank, wooden dice.
- Begin by labeling each side of the dice with the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and a cross symbol, which represents zero.

This labeling will allow the dice to correspond to the commandments.

Play the Ten Commandments Dice Game

- To start the game, roll one die and have the child say the commandment that matches the number rolled.

This step helps children become familiar with the first five commandments. By associating the number on the dice with the corresponding commandment, children can begin to understand and remember the principles.

- Once the child is comfortable with the first five commandments, introduce the second die. Roll both dice and add the numbers together.
- Again, have the child say the commandment that matches the total number rolled. This step reinforces the connection between the numbers on the dice and the commandments.

By following these step-by-step instructions, children can actively engage with the commandments through the Ten Commandments Dice Game. The tactile nature of rolling the dice and associating the numbers with the commandments makes the learning process more interactive and enjoyable. Through this game, children can develop a deeper understanding of the Ten Commandments in a fun and memorable way.

When a Zero Is Rolled

To enhance the Ten Commandments Dice Game, consider incorporating interactive elements when a zero is rolled.

- Allow a reroll or
- Suggest a silly action for the player to perform

For Older Youth

For older youth, have them reflect on the meaning of the commandment rolled. Some suggestions:

- Give an example of the commandment being followed or not followed in pop culture or current events
- State how the commandment helps strengthen our relationship with God and each other

These playful twists add a sense of fun and excitement to the game, keeping it light-hearted and engaging for children. By incorporating these interactive elements, you create opportunities for laughter and enjoyment, making the learning experience even more memorable. The combination of interactive gameplay and the commandments themselves ensures that children actively participate in the game while developing a deeper understanding of the Ten Commandments.
